Americans Celebrate 'Greatest Holiday Ever'

By ANDREW A. YEMMA
United Press International

A Briton newly arrived in this country described Thanksgiving this way:

"America has come up with the greatest holiday ever invented by man — you don't have to go to church or anything. You just stay home and eat."

More than 200 million Americans will be able to choose Thursday from an estimated 138 million turkeys — the second largest crop in the nation's history — and a television diet of parades and football to honor the great American holiday.

That is, if it really is an American holiday. Some revisionists doubt it.

Dr. Donald Scheick of Indiana State University claims thanksgivings were celebrated by the ancient Egyptians, Mesopotamians and Greeks. The American Thanksgiving trappings are myths based on folklore rather than fact, he said.

"There is no recorded evidence that the colonists even took time out to say a prayer," Shieck said.

But not to be turkey day's version of Scrooge, he said our Thanksgiving "is symbolic of some things in American history we think are very important and worth preserving and being thankful for."

Gloomier yet is the version espoused by 84-year-old Maine anthropologist William B. Newell. He said the first Thanksgiving was a celebration of the massacre of 700 Indian men, women and children holding their annual green corn dance in Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1637.

"Gathered in this place of meeting, they were attacked by mercenaries and English and Dutch. The Indians were ordered from the building and as they came forth they were shot down. The rest were burned alive in the building," Newell said.

Dr. James Deetz, an anthropology professor at Brown University in Rhode Island and visiting professor at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., said Thanksgiving began in 1621 at Plymouth Plantation. That doesn't jibe with the the views of Virginians, including Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. They claim the first festival was on Dec. 4, 1619, at Virginia's Berkeley Plantation on the James River.

The only massacres this Thanksgiving, however, could be on the football field. The Chicago Bears, eyeing the NFL playoffs after an upset win over Minnesota, meet the Detroit Lions in Pontiac, Mich., and the intense rivalry between the Miami Dolphins and the St. Louis Cardinals will be renewed along the Mississippi riverfront.

And American service families around the world are expected to consume more than 2 million pounds of turkey, slightly more than one pound for each of the 1.78 million soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines and their families.

Thanksgiving Day Bows Out As Christmas Buying Begins

BY JUDY MONZINGO

Planoites have already started their Christmas shopping, and it looks like a record sales season for area businesses.

A spot check of Plano stores this week indicated that shoppers are shopping earlier, buying more and decorating in the traditional way.

Big-selling items range from Star Wars toys to fur jackets to thermos bottles.

Although the Christmas shopping traffic has just begun in most stores, it's reached its peak in at least one, a catalog order center.

According to a spokesman for the store, the prime time for catalog Christmas sales is from the first of October through about the 25th. Another, lesser peak is usually seen from about the last three or four days of November through mid-December.

Smoke alarms and electronic televideo games have been runaway best-sellers this year, and a healthy business in toys and children's clothing has been noted.

In the retail section of the store, radios, tape recorders and bicycles are the fast-moving items.

A local men's clothing shop is sponsoring a series of special promotions this year in an effort to space out sales and prevent the mad rush during the week before Christmas. Even so, the Saturdays between now and Christmas and the week before the holiday are expected to be the busiest.

Suits have been selling uncommonly well for this time of year, a spokesman said, possibly because the weather until now has been so warm people have put off buying fall clothing.

Other tops on shopping lists include sweaters, shirts and leather jackets. Shoppers so far are leaning toward the better quality lines of clothing, according to the spokesman.

In ladies' ready-to-wear, bestsellers are sweaters, lingerie and bags. Coordinates also are selling well this year, a leading women's shop spokesman said. She also said only an average number of Christmas shoppers have frequented the store so far this year.

A local department store manager said men's pants will be the biggest item for the holidays at their store, with fur jackets priced from $60 to $90 also selling well. In addition, shirts and blouses, all traditional clothing gifts, are selling quickly.

Shopping there started off with a boom last week but tapered off toward the end of the week, according to the manager, and the week before Christmas is expected to be the busiest.

A Plano toy store spokesperson anticipates that Christmas Eve will be "our worst day, or our best day, I guess, depending on which way you look at it!" She said all Star Wars toys and robot items are selling well, and infants' toys are much in demand.

Toys are a top choice of shoppers at a drug store chain outlet here, too, although the manager said Star Wars toys peaked there earlier in the year and the big thing now is a new type of locomotive that does stunts.

Small appliances are also being requested in record numbers at this store, particularly a new pump-type thermos bottle called an air pot, a donut maker and crockpots, which hit the scene about four years ago and have remained on the best-selling lists ever since. Most of the newer model crock pots feature removable crocks, he said.

The drug store manager also thinks Plano people are Christmas shopping earlier than usual this year and that they are buying bigger ticket items than in previous holiday seasons. He expects to stay busy from the day after Thanksgiving right through Christmas Eve.

A local gift and import shop reports a lot of window shoppers and browsers, but adds Christmas shoppers are "trickling" in. Best sellers so far are home decorating items such as baskets, wall hangings, carpet pictures and dried flowers. Some gourmet items and barware also have been sold to Christmas shoppers, the manager said.

An arts and crafts dealer said Christmas shoppers have begun at about their usual pace, with the business at her store expected to pick up as Christmas gets nearer.

Straw wreaths and ribbons are best sellers, she said, and nostalgia-type items are not so much in demand as more elegant decorating items, such as velvets.

Local jewelers say Christmas is a good time for diamonds, gold chains and watches.

A Plano nursery said Christmas trees, pottery and houseplants make up most of the Christmas trade, along with large live trees, usually purchased by couples as gifts to themselves or as a gift from husband to wife or vice versa.

His busiest time will be during the next two weeks, when he and his staff will decorate a number of area business firms, and he has hired a number of extra persons to assist during the holidays, as have most other retail outlets in the city.

As for the decorations, most Plano businesses are going for the traditional look, with trees, tinsel, wreaths, greenery, all the usual decorating items associated with Christmas.

Although nostalgia has enjoyed a good season so far, with a number of area bazaars featuring old-fashioned handmade Christmas items on an "Old-Fashioned Christmas" theme, newer types of ornaments are selling well too.

For example, a local drug store already has sold out an entire shipment of tree ornaments which have chirping, artificial birds in them, and the manager says it is impossible to stock enough of the ornaments, which also were popular last Christmas.

Even though it's only Thanksgiving, Christmas is just a month away, and shoppers who shop early will have the best selection and fewer fellow shoppers to contend with.

Youngsters, Grandmas Enjoy Country Day Turkey Feast

It was as old-fashioned a celebration as they could make it as 40 five-year olds at the Country Day Montessori School enjoyed a pre-Thanksgiving Day feast Wednesday afternoon. The meal was prepared by the children's grandmothers who visited the school, located just north of Plano, along with several other honored guests. Speaking to the students about their respective fields were Plano Fire Marshal Bill Threet (right) and Bill Gentry, also of the Plano Fire Department. Bill Foster, minister at the Wylie Church of Christ, and Dr. Harvey Loomstein also joined the festivities. (Staff photos by Mike Newman).

First PHA Award

Hunt Earns 'Ammie'

Hunt Properties, Inc. will receive the first "Ammie" award of the Plano Heritage Association Wednesday at noon at Los Rios Country Club.

The award recognizes a recent donation by the Dallas-based land development firm to the association. The firm has donated $5,000 and historic buildings on the farm of the late Mrs. Ammie Wilson, internationally-known sheep breeder.

William L. Hamm, president of Hunt Properties, Inc., said about the award, "We seek to preserve historic values. The Ammie Wilson home is a rare treasure for any community. The house and the historic park planned around it provide a unique opportunity for future citizens of Plano to experience 'how it was' when Collin County was being settled by pioneer farm families.

"We congratulate the Plano Heritage Association for its dedication in creating this community asset," he added.

Association President Joan Biggerstaff said the farm site, one and a half miles west of Central Expressway on FM 544, is one of the few restoration projects in the state where buildings are being preserved on the original site.

"We've been told by restoration experts that the buildings would lose 50 percent of their integrity if they were moved to another site," she said.

Ms. Biggerstaff also praised the Plano City Council for its purchase of the four acres of land on which the buildings stand.

"We worked with the city to make this a joint project. City Council members, and particularly Councilwoman Louise Sherill, increased the value of Hunt Properties' donation and made Heritage Center a reality by buying the land," she said. "Then, the association's first president, Mrs. Thelma Rice Sproles, successfully sought donations to help get the whole project on its feet."

The "Ammie" award was created by the heritage group and will be presented when the association wishes to recognize a person, organization or corporation for its significant contribution to preserving Plano's heritage, according to Ms. Biggerstaff.

"Our association and other historical organizations are working fast and hard to save historic structures and sites. Because Plano is building up so fast, these places will soon be gone," she added.

Italy's Imaginary Invalids: Fraud?

ROME (UPI) — The social security problems of the United States are nothing compared to Italy's.

One of every four Italians is drawing a pension of some sort.

And nearly one Italian in 10 has an invalid's pension.

With a labor force of some 12 million and the same number of pensioners, every worker is now supporting a pensioner. And the situation is getting worse, with unemployment now around the 1.6 million mark.

Officially there are more invalids (about 5,119,300) than old age pensioners (roughly 3,872,650).

In the most extreme case — in the Sicilian province of Enna — more than 13 Italians are being paid invalid pensions for every one old age pensioner. The the island home of the Mafia would appear to be packed with one-armed bandits of the human kind nursing wounds from underworld clashes.

But how sick are all those more than five million Italians?

In recent cases doctors have been accused of scattering around disability certificates like confetti, people drawing blind pensions have passed driving license tests, and the former Rome municipal police chief and two doctors were accused of cheating the state out of $17,600 for exaggerating injuries in a motorcycle accident and getting the policeman an invalid's pension.

The old age pensioners are coming under suspicion too.

Three years ago Rome Assistant District Attorney Franco Marrone accused seven government ministers of illegally applying early retirement terms to their personnel. One official who retired at 47 received a pension based on a nominal 49 year seniority.

Pension funds are paying out $12 billion yearly, nearly half to invalids, real or imaginary. The largest fund, INPS, is in the red to the tune of $10 billion and expects the deficit to reach $13.5 billion by 1980.

The system of contributions is a nightmare. Nearly 24 per cent of every industrial employee's earnings are deducted for social security — 7 per cent from the employee and the balance from the employer.

But farmers and peasants only pay a lump sum every year of $65 and self-employed tradesmen $105.

The result is that the farmers are taking more than $26 in pensions for every $10 they contribute every year — a drain of $900 million a year, made up partially by the factory workers.

INPS President Giuseppe Reggio says, "The non-industrial workers will have to increase their contributions three or four times. And we have to cut down invalid pensions to fake invalids."

Easier said than done. Although some doctors have been accused of taking kickbacks for easy invalid certificates, others are socially motivated.

The law governing invalid pensions stipulates they may be granted if the worker is "unable to carry out previous duties" or "if his living conditions are precarious."

Many doctors are looking at the second condition rather than the first, especially in the poor south where unemployment is biting deeply.

The ratio of "invalids" to old age pensioners in poorer regions is often around 6-1. At the lower echelons the pensions are derisory and many invalids and old age pensioners find other menial jobs in Italy's growing "black work" army where they are underpaid and employers do not register them.

At the moment there is no mechanism for withdrawing a pension once it is granted.

This September, the Christian Democratic government of Premier Giulio Andreotti tried to do something about the chaotic pensions scheme and announced a grand plan including a ruling that would reduce the pensions of people who keep on working.

The result was uproar — although there are no statistics to show how many pensioners are moonlighting. The unions complained that Labor Minister Tina Anselmi, Italy's first woman minister, had failed to consult them.

Miss Anselmi said the scheme was not her idea but Treasury Minister Gaetano Stammati's. INPS President Reggio said, "We have no staff to check out the government plan, which is unworkable anyway as it would only encourage 'black' labor."

As pensioners staged protest demonstrations throughout the nation the government realized it was on a collision course with 12 million voters and Andreotti announced lamely that "nothing has been finally decided."

Israeli Sun Only Heats Water Now

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) The Israeli skyline puzzles visitors.

Tanks and black glass panels roost among rooftop television antennas like lunar exploration modules.

They are actually water heaters that work on sunlight. There are 200,000 of them serving 20 per cent all households in the country — by far the highest percentage in the world.

Israeli experts say they can do anything with solar energy. But so far the hot water tank is the only product that runs more cheaply on sunshine than on conventional fuel.

"All the technical problems have been solved," said Shmuel Ofri, coordinator of energy research and development for the Ministry of Industry and Commerce.

He said researchers have figured out how to generate electricity, desalinate water and heat and cool homes by solar energy, besides "millions of industrial uses."

Among these are commercial laundering, recycling bottles, drying grain and tobacco leaves, evaporation in the chemical industry and dying.

"There's a fantastic quantity of energy," he said. "Every day 5,000 times the amount of energy the world uses in a year, and it's not subject to embargoes and you don't have to drill holes to look for it, most of them empty.

"It's seemingly free, but it isn't. Because of the technology it's too expensive for anything except heating water, so far."

The government is devoting 10 per cent of its industrial research budget to developing profitable uses for solar energy.

But for the next five years, it is not likely to take up more than 3 per cent of the current demand for energy.

"We're not ignoring the potential, but solar energy is not a radical solution," said Arye Lavi, the ministry's chief scientist.

Despite that, more than 100 researchers are working on 70 programs at a cost of $6 million and a substantial investment by local standards.

"We've got two basic factors her," Lavi said. "A stock of researchers and ideas and conditions that allow exploitation."

In short — sunlight. Government statistics show that there were only 45 rainy days in Tel Aviv in 1976.

Roof heaters need only a few hours of sunlight a day to work, and they can use diffused light on cloudy days.

Israeli scientists were among the first to work on practical ways of putting solar energy to use. They are credited with two key concepts — selective surface coating for energy collectors and the so-called solar pond.

The coating keeps the heat of the sun inside the glass panels, where it heats water from the rooftop tank before it is to be used for dish-washing and laundry. Without the coating most of the heat would dissipate.

The solar pond is a more advanced concept, developed by Prof. Rudi Bloch.

He noticed the bottoms of pools in his native Hungary were slightly warmer than the water above them. This is because solar energy hitting a pond is reflected back off the bottom. But in a normal pond the heat gets lost through evaporation and cooling at the surface.

The solar pond traps solar energy by arranging for a layer of high-density liquid at the bottom, with layers of less and less density up to the surface. Omri said the bottom layer heats up to just over boiling.

This hot water can then be drawn off and put to use. The Israelis hope to market a system within a few years that will be competitive with electricity in remote locations.

They are also working toward hotter results with ball-shaped or conical collectors that use tracking mechanisms to follow the path of the sun and focus its beams.

"By the year 2,000 the percentage of solar energy use will be much greater," Lavi said. "With the price of fuel expected to go up, more and more uses will become economical and the elements will be cheaper."

Antifreeze Must Meet Standards

Is the price on that gallon of antifreeze just too good to be true?

If it seems extremely low and you're not familiar with the brand, it's wise to find out if it meets certain minimum standards, advises Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Brown said consumers may check to see if a particular brand of antifreeze is registered by calling any Texas Department of Agriculture regional office or the TDA Weights and Measures Section in Austin (512-475-6577).

He stated, however, that the TDA will not give specific details about a product, nor will it endorse any particular brand.

By law, all antifreeze offered for sale in the state must be registered with the TDA and must meet rigid standards.

"With the high cost of autos and equipment today, it is vital to know exactly what goes into the radiators," Brown stated. "If a brand of antifreeze is registered, consumers can be assured that it will offer freeze protection to within two degrees of the specifications stated on the label, regardless of blend or outside temperature."

Brown added that because methyl alcohol evaporates easily, any product that uses this as its base must state on the label that it is not suitable for use as a summer coolant. Also, TDA specifications require that an antifreeze not foam excessively. Foaming can cause radiator boil-over and possible engine damage.

Rhodesia Fight Lures American Vets

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — With a drink in one hand and a cigarette in the other, American Keith Nelson sat smiling in a wheelchair surrounded by a group of young women at a garden party.

A friend slapped a hand on the stump that once was Nelson's left knee and asked: "How ya doin', ol buddy?"

Nelson's smile widened and he replied, "Just fine."

As he told it, Nelson's biggest problem was waiting for the stumps to lose their swelling so he could be fitted with replacements for the legs he lost to a black nationalist guerrilla mine in June while serving as a Rhodesian infantry medic.

Once this is done, Nelson goes back to active duty, this time as a medic instructor.

Nelson, 26, from Sycamore, Ill., a veteran of Vietnam, is one of scores of Americans who have come to help fight insurgents intent on transforming white-run Rhodesia into black-ruled Zimbabwe.

Foreign reports put the number of foreigners fighting in Rhodesia at about 1,000, most of them Britons with kith and kin ties to Rhodesia's white settler community. Military sources say between 200 and 300 are Americans.

Two have been killed in the past five years. At least a dozen have deserted.

Because of a supreme court ruling that an American fighting for Israel need not be stripped of his U.S. citizenship, Americans serving in Rhodesia — which is not deemed an enemy of the United States — do not run the risk of losing theirs unless they lie about their military activities when applying for new passports.

Most Americans here share five common factors: a conservative bent, disenchantment with current U.S. foreign policy, previous service in the U.S. armed forces, a craving for adventure and the notion that by fighting here they're picking up where U.S. forces left off in Vietnam.

Like Nelson, a one-time special forces medic who came in February in search of an alternative to college biology classes, most are Vietnam veterans.

Are they mercenaries?

"I hate to hear that word," says Nelson. The dictionary defines it as a person fighting under a foreign flag. Well, by that definition, yes.

"But if the definition you use is the current one where you think of a mercenary as some bloodthirsty killer out getting paid 2,000 bucks a week to walk around the bush and slaughter people, then obviously no."

Nelson and others like him say they get paid the same as Rhodesians — about the equivalent of $534 a month for a noncom and approximately $680 for an officer, all remitted in non-transferable local currency.

The only benefit foreigners receive for signing up is that, if accepted, they are reimbursed for plane fare to Rhodesia.

Americans are made aware of Rhodesia in advertisements in publications such as "Soldier of Fortune," the mercenary magazine. In countries where such advertising is illlegal, the Rhodesians rely on word of mouth.

An army public relations officer, who asked that his name not be used, said applications are "checked as thoroughly as possible," partly to make sure foreign volunteers are not foreign agents.

"There's no point in hiding the fact that Rhodesia needs manpower in its struggle," he said. "So obviously the more suitable volunteers we are able to recruit, the more able we are to prosecute the war."

Foreigners generally take one rank lower than the one they held in the armed forces of their home countries.

Americans, the army spokesman said, "fit in very well and do a great job. Their experience in Vietnam, in many cases, is a good foundation, although they do have a training course to adjust to the terrorist war we are fighting."

Once re-trained, foreigners can attain senior operational ranks, even if they were phased out of the service back home.

A case in point is Maj. Mike Williams, 52, a one-time special forces captain who now commands a squadron of the Grey Scouts, Rhodesia's unique horse-mounted infantry.

He served 12 years in the U.S. army, but in 1960-61 "got caught in a reduction in forces" and was returned to reserve status.

Williams, of San Antonio, Texas, ran a scuba school boat service in Florida. In February, 1976, he traveled to Zambia to join Jonas Savimbi's guerrillas but he failed to make contact and opted for Rhodesia.

"This is the only country now that is actually fighting communism in Africa," he said.

Travis Tucker, 29, of Arlington, Va., served four years in Vietnam as a marine, had a "disastrous marriage," left it for a "white-ruled English speaking country" where he could raise a son and now serves in the Selous Scouts — an elite unit of bush trackers.

In many ways, Tucker is typical of many Americans fighting here. Well educated and conservative, he sees the war, not as a black struggle for equality, but as a communist plot because the guerrillas are equipped and trained by Communist countries.

On the U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, he says: "They just sold out every boy who died over there."

Like other Americans interviewed, Tucker says he would not object to majority rule here, providing it was stable, democratic and kept the capitalist system on which whites here thrive.

If such a regime should come about, it is doubtful many Americans will see it close up.

A condition of the terms of the Anglo-American peace proposals is that foreigners in the armed forces be discharged during an interim premajority rule period.

Zhivago Heroine Reveals Suppression

MOSCOW (UPI) — Boris Pasternak's dark, piercing eyes stare down from a photograph in Olga Ivinskaya's cramped, two-room apartment.

It has been 17 years since the author-poet's death, but his presence is everywhere.

Snapshots and clippings are piled on her desk or stuck to the bookcase.

Now — as during their 14 turbulent years together — their lives remain entwined.

Olga Ivinskaya, 62, was Pasternak's companion and mistress — the woman after whom he patterned the memorable character Lara in his internationally acclaimed novel, "Dr. Zhivago."

"It's not only that I slept with Boris Leonidovich, I was his right hand," she said, in the first interview she has granted a Western correspondent since Pasternak's death. "I knew his thoughts, his deeds, his plans."

She also shared his agony in the international furor created by the publication abroad in 1958 of "Dr. Zhivago," which was denounced by the Soviet Union's official Union of Writers.

After he won the Nobel Prize for literature, Pasternak was forced to choose between accepting the award in Stockholm and never returning home or renouncing it. Under immense pressure, he chose the latter.

Olga said the venomous attacks on Pasternak scarred his memory and forced her to write her memoirs.

"I had no other way out. I did what I had to do."

She said she did not intend for her manuscript to be published abroad, but that, through friends who had read copies of the book, it turned up in the West. It will be published in February.

She said she did not want to stir up "noise" — she just wanted to tell the truth.

Asked if she fears repercussions, Olga said quietly, "Everything is possible."

Sipping Bulgarian wine, Olga swept the air with her hands as she talked, saying editors at the Soviet magazine Novy Mir held Pasternak's controversial Zhivago manuscript for seven months without acting on it.

"They were saying to me that they won't be able to publish all of it, but parts of it in segments," she said.

The Soviet Communist party Central Committee seemed to favor the book, she said, but the Union of Writers wanted to ban it.

Olga said there was a "struggle for priority" and that Zhivago came very close to being published.

"They even made arrangements for a contract to the State Publishing House, but then they demanded to delete something."

Olga said months passed and nothing happened. Then Pasternak took a gamble.

"I recall him meeting me at the railway station," said Olga, staring out her apartment window. "Very guiltily, he said he had given the novel to an Italian (publisher) and I knew already what it smelled of.

"I rushed to get it back, but I couldn't," she said.

Olga said the publisher told Pasternak he would "stay in the shadow" for a year and give Soviet authorities a chance to publish it.

But when it became known the novel was in the hands of a foreign publisher, the editors of Novy Mir hastily wrote a letter rejecting the manuscript, Olga said.

In that letter, written in 1958, the magazine editors attacked Pasternak for political comments expressed by several characters in the book. They referred to the central character — Yuri Zhivago — as having "egocentric views."

The letter criticized the novel at one point because "neither (the character) Alexandr Alexandrovich, nor Zhivago have the least trace of a sense of duty to the revolution or to the people."

Olga said the reaction "had nothing to do with the very gist of the novel."

She said the thoughts of secondary characters could have been held by anyone during the upheaval of the 1917 revolution "but all of them were ascribed to the author and they were saying this was his political credo."

"He didn't plan (the book) as a challenge and was very reluctant to take part in any political life. He kept saying it, but you know that people who keep saying that they don't want to get involved in politics — do it all around themselves."

"Willy-nilly, we became the heroes of a certain political situation," Olga said.

But the uproar scared her and, in turn, Pasternak.

"It was I who got frightened," she said. "Let my faults be my faults. In the situation which Pasternak would have behaved better and in a nicer way here, I interfered."

She said she pressured him to try to get the book back.

"Then followed the line of those people who wanted to force Boris to reject his novel. And, being afraid for his life, I did what they wanted me to."

In the harsh critique from Novy Mir, the editors said the Pasternak who wrote "Dr. Zhivago" was a different man from the beloved poet of earlier years.

Olga agrees. The years had changed him.

"It was the hard time of Stalinism," she said. "Many of his friends suffered."

"Life made him face such things and made him reconsider, and think it over."

Dealer Cost Plus Sensible Profit Gets Top Car Buy

When the new cars come out many of us get the feeling that we'd like to get rid of our old "Tin Lizzy." If we yield to such a desire then, usually, the next thing we think about is, "Where can I get the best deal?"

In order to stay in business a dealer has to make a reasonable profit which is $125 to $300 on each car he sells. If you can find out what the car cost the dealer then you have a great opportunity of working out a good deal.

First, determine what kind of car you need, plus the options. Then shop around asking each salesman to give you the list price for the model you want, plus an itemized list of the prices for the options you've selected, as well as the cost of transportation, dealer preparation, state and local taxes, and license plate fees.

Then take all the figures home with you so that you can study your survey. If you'd like to know exactly how much each 1978 American-made automobile and all of its options cost the dealer, send for "Car Prices."

In this way, without pressure from a salesman, you will be able to figure out what the car and options cost the dealer. The actual price you should pay for the car should be between $125 and $300 more than the wholesale total.

Armed with this information you can then go back to the dealer of your choice and make your deal.

Car Prices costs $1.95 plus 50 cents postage and handling. Order from Car Prices, 1440 W. Walnut Street, Compton, CA. 90220

Papoose Generation Should Shed Load

The "Papoose Generation" is the label a University of Texas mental health expert gives to those adults who have to shoulder the double load of having grown children and elderly parents dependent on them longer.

Mrs. Bert Kruger Smith of the UT Hogg Foundation for Mental Health advises adults in the middle to give the "papooses" more responsibility for themselves and to teach them to help each other.

THE RADIO HOBBYIST

By Frederick O. Maia
KKB-0924 – W5UTT
Executive Director, American Radio Council

How many of you have ever heard of legal unlicensed "over-the-air" radio telephone activity in the 6-meter VHF band? My guess is that not many of you are aware that the FCC released an order (Part 15.117-142, Subpart D) on January 19, 1977, that permits low-power unlicensed personal communications devices on five different frequencies between 49.830 and 49.890 MHz. These frequencies fall just below the "ham" amateur radio band which begins at 50 MHz.

The Part 15 FCC regulations covering this service allow both commercial and homemade radio equipment with any kind of modulation. The only stipulation is that the bandwidth be no wider than 20 KHz and that all signals falling outside the 49.8 MHz band must be reduced to levels below 50 micro-volts per meter measured at 3 meters.

This means that there is adequate bandwidth for AM, sideband, FM .....even Morse code, radio-teletype, telemetry, radio control of objects or slow-scan television. No FCC license of any type is needed. It is probably to only legal unlicensed radio service that exists today. At present, these frequencies are little used by the hobbyist. This could change, however,as more and more radio enthusiasts and manufacturers find out about the existence of 49.8 MHz personal communications.

The Federal Communications Commission requires that the transceiver device be completely self-contained with the single-element antenna permanently attached to the enclosure containing the low power device. The antenna can not exceed 1 meter (about 39 inches) in length. The band is intended by the FCC for very short range radio communications and the strict antenna regulations tend to limit range to a mile or so. It is conceivably possible, however, due to sporadic 6-meter radio propagation phenomena to make an occasional long distance radio contact.....sometimes 400 or 500 miles....even at the low authorized power level.

One of the main features of the service is the complete lack of any FCC rules governing operation. There are no transmitting time, distance, age restrictions.....just about anything goes as long as you adhere to the FCC's technical specifications.

The transceiver must be completely self-contained and if a microphone is used, it must be built right into the enclosure. It can't be on a cord. Commercially manufacturered transceivers must have RF power levels not to exceed 10,000 micro-volts per meter measured at 3 meters. Home brewed units can be built in quantities of five or less without the necessity of FCC certification. Homemade transceivers are permitted to have a power input not to exceed 100 milli-watts (one tenth of a watt) under modulation conditions. Harmonic signals(unwanted multiple spurious energy) must be suppressed at leat 20 db. You are not permitted to market homemade equipment without FCC type approval.

Already in existence is a California based group called the "Forty-Niner Radio Club" whose purpose is to promote hobby type activity on the 49.8 MHz frequencies. Mike Gauthier, president of the club(and a "ham" radio operator for over 20 years) told us that good commercial equipment is not yet on the market. The FCC originally authorized the band to get the small hand-held walkie-talkie off of the Channel 14 CB frequency. The radio-hobbyist, seeing the possibilities of the new authorized frequency band, is now figuring out ways to make use of it. One of the potentially useful applications could be for wireless inter-comm sets to be used between offices and nearby houses. Equipment is now just becoming available and there is no telling what could develop.

The frequencies assigned to the 49.8MHz band are allocated to the government radio service in this country, but are utilized by the broadcast VHF television services in other foreign countries.

If you have any questions or comments regarding the radio hobby, please direct them to "THE RADIO HOBBYIST" column in care of this newspaper. Universally appealing questions will be covered in this column.

The AMERICAN RADIO COUNCIL is a national organization of radio hobbyists that are interested in improving their communications skills, technical knowledge and receiving increased radio privileges. For further information write: P. O. Box # 1171; Garland, Texas 75040.

Plautist's Fad: 'Pyramid Power'

By BRUCE MEYER
United Press International

There is a place, even in the frenetic, high-decibel world of rock 'n' roll, for a quiet moment or two.

When one of those moments catches up with you, try spending it with flutist Paul Horn — in the heart of the Great Pyramid. Horn's album, "Inside The Great Pyramid" (Mushroom MRS-5507), is about as close as most of us will ever get to a personal experience with what's been popularly termed "pyramid power."

And if your head is in the right place, the record can indeed be an experience.

The Great Pyramid of Gizeh, located just outside of Cairo in the Egyptian desert, has been described as the oldest, largest, heaviest and most perfect structure ever built on Earth.

Its origin is a mystery. The accepted story is that it is a monument to the Pharaoh Cheops, built some 2,500 years B.C. But some of the farther out theories make the pyramid as old as 100,000 years — and attribute its construction to extra-terrestrial visitors.

Horn — like many people with an artistic bent — leans toward the mystical explanations.

"To me," he says, "it stretches the imagination more to think that 100,000 people worked for 20 or 30 years to build that thing than that it was pre-Egyptian and built in some other way. You just can't get 100,000 men under a 70-ton block of granite and say, 'One-two-three, lift!' We don't even have the technology today to build that pyramid."

Horn thinks more mind than muscle went into the construction of the pyramid — in the form of levitation. And he attributes its construction not to the Egyptians, but to the people of lost Atlantis.

"Whatever its origin," he says, "the pyramid is a magnificent structure ... there's so much stone there, and there's a power, unmistakable — pyramid power, just to give it a name — some force that's as real as the magnetic fields surrounding the earth. And I think that was certainly a part of my performance."

Horn wanted to play his flute inside the pyramid, just as he did several years ago at India's Taj Mahal in what was then a pioneering experiment in music. And last year, he hooked up with an archeological expedition to do just that.

The story of his trip is provided in considerable detail in a booklet that accompanies the double album and makes fascinating reading.

More important, though, are the unique recordings that Horn has given the world.

The music is, appropriately, both pure and simple. It bears little resemblance to any popular form, unless it be free-form jazz. But there is a quality of human warmth in Horn's playing and foot-tapping and hand-clapping and occasional lapses into humming and chanting that transcends the intellectual coolness implied by such terms.

Horn is most accurate when he describes it simply as "quiet music" — and he feels at some time or other nearly everyone can enjoy it.

"There are a lot of people who appreciate some quiet things, along with other things," he says. "Something soothing to the nerves and, to use the word loosely, meditative. It doesn't have anything to do with age or sex — but it does seem to fill a need."

Plano Faces No.1(?) Conroe

Wildcats Seek Regional Grid Title

By ED VOSS
Sports Editor

In all belief, Plano Coach Tommy Kimbrough feels his Wildcats are playing the number one football team in the state this Friday at 8 p.m. at Baylor Stadium in Waco.

Plano tangles with Conroe in the Class AAAA Regionals and both teams are coming off big wins. Plano beat Lufkin, 17-7, last week while Conroe upset Temple, 3-0, in the bi-district round.

Temple was number two in the United Press International rankings prior to that defeat and Conroe was unranked. However, in the Harris Rating System which Kimbrough subscribes to, Temple was rated number one and Conroe was number three.

"We anticipate we are playing the number one team in the state according to the Harris poll," Coach Kimbrough said. "We feel Conroe is one of the strongest teams in the state if not the strongest."

Plano was unranked last week and knocked off UPI's number nine ranked team, Lufkin. So, Plano should be ranked this week, conceivably, but at this writing the rankings weren't released.

Conroe made a midseason turn around to reach their prestigious loft. They lost back-to-back games to Lufkin and Temple in the regular season before sweeping District 16-AAAA with impressive statistics.

"Teams change during the course of the season and their team changed. Early in the season, Conroe wasn't near number one. But they changed drastically. They averaged 43 points a game and allowed only three points per game in district. They shutout the number one team in the state last week."Coach Kimbrough said.

"They are the most talented team we've faced to date," Coach Kimbrough said. "They are much better than Sherman defensively. Offensively, they have a passing attack similar to Sherman's."

Plano tied Sherman 14-14 in District 13-AAAA play and ended as district co-champs.

Plano used a ball control offense and superior defensive effort last week to beat Lufkin, a team that like Conroe is much larger than Plano. What will it take this week for the Wildcats to be the winners?

"We are going to have to hold them defensively," Coach Kimbrough said. "Offensively, we will have to score some points against one of the best teams in the state."

Offensively, Conroe runs a wishbone offense which concerns Kimbrough because the Wildcats have not faced that type formation all season.

Kimbrough feels the standouts in the Conroe offense are quarterback Binky Ford, tackle Kevin Kennedy and split end David Dumas.

Ford is a junior and took over at quarterback in midseason when Conroe developed into a powerhouse. Ford, 5-9 and 160 lb., has 275 net yards this season running and has completed 30 passes of 74 attempts for 579 yards and five touchdowns. Remember, that is for only half the season that he has played.

Kennedy is a tackle and was listed in the preseason in Dave Campbell's Texas Football Magazine on the Super Team. He weighs 258 lb. and measures 6-3.

Split receiver David Dumas is on the receiving end of most Ford passes with 35 receptions for 843 yards and eight touchdowns. His longest reception has been 44 yards and he had 123 yards in receptions in Conroe's win over Bryan.

Defensively, Conroe runs an eight-man front, split formation which is the same defense Plano has faced three times consecutively.

Kimbrough feels the standouts on the defense are tackle Wayne Matson at 222 lb., Kennedy who was mentioned previously, Kevin Chaney at end at 204 lb. and safety David Womack at 155 lb.

Both Plano and Conroe are consistent playoff teams although this is their first meeting. Plano has been in the playoffs 12 out of the last 14 years and Conroe has been in five times in nine years.

Plano might have a psycological edge in one respect, - Conroe has been in the Regionals twice before and lost both times. They lost to Longview in 1975 and to Tyler John Tyler in 1973. Meanwhile, Plano has never lost at the Regional level; beating Killeen in 1972 and Bryan in 1974.

Head Coach at Conroe is W.T. Stapler with nine years of experience as head coach at Conroe with a 66-17-2 record.

Ed Voss, Sports Editor

Some people will do anything to get their name in the newspaper. The hardest trying and least successful that I know of is Craig Gilbert, Plano Senior High's answer to Doc Welby.

Craig (known far and wide as Gilbo the Red Raider) even offered to bribe me with a Coca-Cola at Tuesday's Plano Vs. Irving basketball game. So, for the record, let it be written that I can't be bribed by cash. (Craig, that will be one large Coke at the next game, payable at halftime.) Cokes are a different matter!

Well, sports fans, it is back to Waco again this Friday night when our heroes in Maroon and White (otherwise known as the Plano Wildcats) battle for the Regional Title in football against a formidable foe - the Conroe whatevers.

Game time is Friday at 8 p.m. back at Baylor Stadium.

I hope more Plano people attend than last week at the bi-district game, also at Baylor against Lufkin in which the locals won 17-7. I wouldn't swear to it, but it looked like Lufkin might have had more people there than Plano (and what a switch that is for any Wildcat opponent to have more fans!)

Anyway, I made it last week in a borrowed 1978 Firebird in one hour and 45 minutes from the front door of the Star-Courier to Baylor Stadium's pressbox elevator. That was without benefit of Pam E. Troboy's citizen's band radio. For new readers of this column, Pam is the notorious East Texas Aggie and known on the CB as Lois Lane. She is also the police reporter here at the ole Star-Courier.

I have decided that for this week's game, I will drive slower. That way, photographer Richard LaGow can keep his supper down, broadcaster Tom Allen (true name Hergenrader) and Billy Greiser (of last week's two-ticket fame) can speak audibly. Anyway, Pam decided not to let me borrow her CB because she was afraid she would be arrested for being an accomplice to conspiracy to commit a crime (or something like that) by my breaking the speed limit.

But, in case I do find a CB somewhere else, I'll be going as the "White Tornado" so stay tuned.

PYSA Holds Skills Day

Over 200 Plano youth soccer players and 28 coaches participated in the annual Skills Day held by the Plano Youth Soccer Association.

Skills Days is a demonstration of skills learned by youngsters under 8 that they learned during the soccer season. Each youngster who could show basic knowledge of field positions, throwing in, heading, dribbling, trapping, kicking for distance and accuracy and obstacle dribbling received an award.

"PYSA congratulates these players and their coaches. Our organization is very proud of all youngsters who came out and demonstrated what they have learned," said Under 8 League Director Larry Sullivan.

Following are the top girls and boys who scored 460 or more points on Skills Day:

Heads Up; Skylab Fall In 1981?

The United States rocketed an 84-ton space station called Skylab into orbit around the Earth on May 14, 1973, and during the next nine months it served as home for three-man crews for as long as 12 weeks at a time.

The Skylab program borrowed hardware and technology from the preceding Apollo moon landing project and demonstrated that men could live and work in weightless space for long periods of time.

Its scientific payoff was great. A powerful telescope aboard the 118-foot-long ship produced extraordinary photographs of the sun; it studied the comet Kohoutek; a special array of cameras and sensors looked down to study Earth resources; an electric furnace processed materials in ways they could not be worked on Earth and other instruments carried out a variety of experiments.

An accident during launch that ripped off a solar generating panel and jammed another gave astronauts an opportunity to prove they could carry out repairs in orbit to save a mission that cost $2.5 billion.

Skylab was abandoned in orbit when astronauts Gerald Carr, Edward Gibson and William Pogue left it on Feb. 8, 1974.

But the big spacecraft is still up there, circling the globe every hour and a half in an orbit more than 200 miles high. It is gradually dropping toward the Earth, however, under the drag of particles from the sun and very sparse fringes of Earth's upper atmosphere.

As it stands now, Skylab will re-enter the thicker portions of the atmosphere sooner or later. The aerodynamic forces against the aluminum structure will cause it to break up and the friction of air rushing by it will cause much of it to burn up as it falls. Some pieces are expected to survive re-entry and hit the planet's surface.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration doesn't know when re-entry will occur, but scientists say it could happen anywhere from 1979 to sometime in the 1980s.

Armstrong Students Recieve Flags

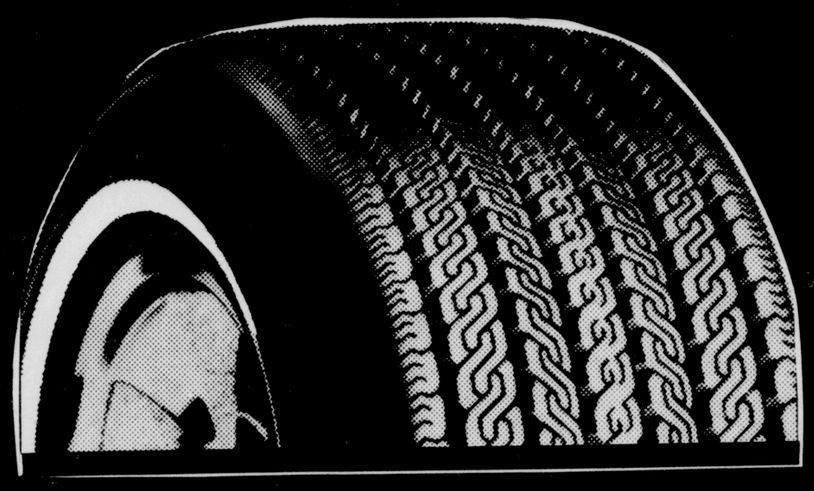

Students at Armstrong Middle School to accept flags for all the schools classroom. The flags were donated to the school by the American Legion and Auxilary of Post 321. Irene McKee presented the flags to Dwight Beavert, principal of Armstrong, on behalf of both Post 321 and the Auxilary. Several Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts raised the United States flag and flag of the State of Texas. Prior to the flag raising ceremonies several Armstrong students read poems and essays about Thanksgiving.

It's Not All Gravy

My father is a very talented guitar-player and singer, and I have always wished that I had inherited some of his talent. I dabbled with guitar just a bit when Carl and I were first married, but my dabbling came out pretty bad, so I gave it up for a while.

Then I picked it up again, and practiced and practiced until I had to stop because my fingers were numb from trying to hold the strings down. I could probably be a much better guitarist if I could give up washing dishes. I get a good set of calluses built up and they can be destroyed in one pan of dishwater. (But it might also help if I could sing. I can't carry a tune in a brown paper bag.)

A few years ago, a friend of mine started coming over, and we'd hide away in the bedroom and sing to our hearts content. She had a pretty good voice, and we could stumble through a few country and western songs. Occasionally, we would get carried away with our exuberance and begin to think that we were ready to cut a record, until Carl would pass by and mention that my guitar was out of tune, and we were singing in two different keys. (Maybe in a year or two when we had more practice.)

After she moved away, I was at a loss until I discovered that one of my neighbors also plays guitar. She mentioned that she liked to play but she really wasn't very good, and wished that she could take some lessons. I was really excited about finding someone that perhaps wasn't as accomplished as I was, and I prepared myself for our first get-together confident that I would shine.

I played a couple of songs, which weren't too bad, and my neighbor said they were very good. (My ego soared and I even started considering cutting a record again.) Then she picked up her guitar to play a few numbers and my ego crashed. She played several popular songs with style and finesse, and she even managed to sing in the right key. I was really impressed, especially since she wasn't playing from sheet music the way I always do. Being sure that she must have the music at home and had practiced for years to play the songs, I asked her if I could borrow her music.

"Oh," she said, "I don't have the sheet music. I just listen to a song over and over until I can pick out the chords."

Ughhh! When I listen to a song, I have trouble picking out the words, and she can pick out the chords, but I guess it helps if you're not tone deaf.

But I had come too far to give up just because I couldn't find anybody worse than me, so my neighbor and I still get together to spend an afternoon plucking away at our guitars. Music reveberates through my house, but we do keep the windows closed so no one turns us in for disturbing the peace.

Mapping Resources

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The state's Geological Survey will continue to concentrate in the next fiscal year on mapping and discovering Illinois' major energy resources — coal, oil and gas.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Elementary school children in Illinois may soon be able to plant up to 100,000 trees a year under a program begun by the Illinois Department of Conservation.

Broadway's Mutt Seeks His Roots

NEWINGTON, Conn. (UPI) — Li'l Orphan Annie's dog, Sandy, took one look at the cage he occupied before becoming a big Broadway star and barked: "A joke's a joke, but this is ridiculous.

"Okay, guys. The joke is over and we can go home," Sandy told Bill Berloni, who cares for the flop-eared pooch, a star in the Broadway hit, "Annie."

A talking dog? Not really.

Berloni was only translating for Sandy when he returned to the Connecticut Humane Society Monday to see the cage he occupied before Berloni found him last year and launched him on his Broadway career.

Berloni, a 20-year-old actor, is now writing a book about Sandy with author Alison Thomas, best known for his screenplay for the movie "Benji." In Thomas' books, the dogs always talk, so Berloni says he is getting used to talking dogs.

Sandy was just another mutt at the pound when Berloni was working as a technical assistant at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam last year. At the time the show "Annie" was in rehearsal and the producers were stuck for a dog to play the part of Annie's canine sidekick.

At the pound, a likely candidate was about to be destroyed when — "Leapin' Lizards!" as Annie would say — Berloni arrived in the nick of time.

"I looked over several possibilities, and then I saw this skinny, cringing dog that nobody wanted. He obviously had been abused by his former owner. I could see he was the dog we were looking for," Berloni said.

Sandy proved to be an apt pupil. And speaking of pupils, few of the characters had any in the old Harold Gray comic strip, Li'l Orphan Annie, which mesmerized millions of kids.

For Friday, Nov. 25, 1977

Your Birthday

Nov. 25, 1977

Several major decisions with far-reaching effects may be required of you this coming year. Judiciously weigh the alternatives. An unwise choice could deprive you of the success to which you're entitled.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful today or you may be held partially responsible for the mistakes of associates. Insist upon okaying all their moves. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Know how to distinguish today between being industrious or just a plain workaholic. Overdoing could lead to your undoing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You normally strive to do that which is for the greater good of the greater number, but today your motives may be more self-serving.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A cohort with whom you have an uneasy alliance may try to cast you in a service role today. Don't let his arrogance intimidate you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll encounter serious difficulties today in enlisting supporters for causes, if you're too demanding. Saying "please" helps.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Review your financial picture carefully today before committing yourself to additional fiscal burdens. Don't get into a position where outlay exceeds income.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those days when you might catch it from all corners. Your best course is to dodge potential trouble spots.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Things you've previously swept under the rug may surface in a cloud of dust today. Even if they don't, let nothing more accrue.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Complications could develop today through involvements with friends. If matters are mismanaged, there may be a price to pay.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Beware. Today, taking an unpopular stance will have the pack nipping at your heels.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to be better today at doing things where you have to flex your muscles rather than your mind. Shelve mental tasks till later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Caution and practicality are essential in business deals today. Make no assumptions or verbal agreements; get it all down on paper.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

No dye for glass fiber

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY – Do you know of any dye that I could get that would change the color of glass fiber curtains? The kind I see in our grocery says it is not for glass fiber. – V.C.

DEAR V.C. – I do not know of such a dye and do not think you will find one. Instructions on the best known brand of fabric dye say that glass and mineral fabrics will not dye. – POLLY

DEAR POLLY – My Pet Peeve used to be getting too much detergent, etc. on a shirt collar and cuffs to pre-treat a spot before laundering as I always put on too much. I solved the problem for myself by putting this detergent in a clean empty shampoo bottle with a flip-up lid and I now just squirt the required amount on the soiled area and it works great.

When making meatballs to go in spaghetti sauce I put the meatballs on a cooky sheet and bake in a 400 degree oven for about 10 minutes, turning several times. This is much easier than browning them in a fry pan. – MRS. R.F.

DEAR POLLY–I cut any old bath towels I have so they fit over wire coat hangers and then stitch around the top parts. A hole is poked through the top section of the towel tip so the hook goes through and the cover fits snugly over the hanger. This makes an excellent hanger and after washing I put blouses, sweaters and men's shirts on them with no fear of rust stains, they dry well and with no creases so are ready to wear with little or no ironing. – MRS.F.H.

DEAR POLLY – To remove burned-on food from pots or over glassware I keep a heavy duty plastic ice scraper in my kitchen drawer handy to use for scraping off any burned food. This is quick and certainly beats scouring and more scouring. – CONNIE.

DEAR POLLY – My daughter discarded a nice white sweater because she scorched it across the back trying to dry it too near a wall heater. She gave the sweater to me and I made it look like new again by covering the scorched area with some lace I had. I also added a strip of lace around each cuff. The sweater looks almost like new again and the scorched area cannot be noticed. – JEAN.

DEAR POLLY – When making jam or jelly and you are ready to put paraffin on top pour on a bit of wax then lay a piece of string across the top as you hold on to one end and then pour more wax over the string. When cool it will have a "handle" to pull with when you want to remove the wax and eat the jelly. – MILDRED.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

The World of Music

By ROBIN WELLES
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Albums aimed at the Christmas market are falling like snowflakes from the record companies.

LPs make excellent gifts, but please don't give a KISS album to granddad (unless you have an unusual granddad) and it's not advisable to present a Glenn Miller LP to your teen-ager (unless you have an unusual teen-ager).

Here are some of the new sounds out for Christmas that are pretty sure to please:

ROLLING STONES — Love You Live (Rolling Stones Records) — High energy rock 'n roll by Mick Jagger, Keith Richard & Company. A two-record set that'll blast the neighbors awake on Christmas morning.

LYNYRD SKYNYRD — Street Survivors (MCA) — Already a collector's item, this LP came out about the same time of the tragic plane crash that killed lead singer Ronnie Van Zant and other band members. Skynyrd was a leader in Southern-style rock.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN — Greatest Hits (MCA) — Young, and not-so-young sophisticates will love this collection that includes memorable songs like "Changes," "Have You Never Been Mellow" and "Please Mr. Please."

THE QUINTET — V.S.O.P. (CBS) — A two-record set that will turn on any jazz fan. Pianist Herbie Hancock, trumpeter Freddie Hubbard, saxophonist Wayne Shorter, bassist Ron Carter and drummer Tony Williams were recorded live earlier this year at UC-Berkeley.

ELVIS IN CONCERT (RCA) — Presley fans have been buying his records by the millions since his death. His "Moody Blue" LP still is riding high on the charts. This two-record LP is the soundtrack from the recent CBS-TV special on Presley. It's just out and could make a Christmas gift because most Elvis fans probably won't have it yet.

KENNY BURRELL — Ellington Is Forever (Fantasy) — Those who once danced with the Duke now are mostly in their 50s. This two-record set would bring out the smiles. Top musicians play elegant Ellington's "Sentimental Mood," "Solitude," "Take the 'A' Train," many more.

CRYSTAL GAYLE — We Must Believe in Magic (United Artists) — Crystal is country's top female vocalist for 1977. Long in the shadow of sister Loretta Lynn, it now looks like Loretta is going to be known as Crystal's sister.

THE OSMONDS — Greatest Hits (Polydor) — Another two-record set that would make a delightful gift for your teenybopper (many adults also dig the Osmonds). Donny & Marie do the beautiful "Morning Side of the Mountain" and many more of their golden hits.

GUARNERI QUARTET — Bartok, The Six String Quartets (RCA) — Nothing like drinking in some of the Bartok wine to push you toward the new year.

ASHFORD & SIMPSON — Send It (Warner Bros.) — One of the top rhythm and blues duos in the business. Nick and Valerie do all of their own writing and producing. The act started out in gospel vein but has steadily widened its appeal.

ELTON JOHN — Greatest Hits Volume II (MCA) — This LP by the British rock superstar could be the hottest selling item of the holiday season. There are 10 of Elton's classic hits on this one — take your pick for the best of show.

The Lynyrd Skynyrd Band

Collector's Item—Lynyrd Skynyrd's latest album, "Street Survivors," came out about the same time as the tragic plane crash that killed lead singer Ronnie Van Zant, guitarist Steve Gaines and vocalist Cassie Gaines. It is rumored in musical circles that the band is planning to regroup and try to continue its Southern-style rock. (Copley News Service photo).

Remember Spud, Droopy & Crash

Then You Know Frank McHugh

COS COB, Conn. (UPI) — Meeting Frank McHugh for the first time is like running into an old friend.

McHugh was "Spud" Connors in "The Crowd Roars," "Droopy" in "Here Comes The Navy," "Crash" Connors in "Devil Dogs of the Air," "Crepe Hanger" Burke in "The Fighting 69th," and "Festus Garvey" in "The Last Hurrah," with Spencer Tracy, to name just a few of the parts he played in 150 movies.

"People think they really know me. I go along with it," he chuckled. But then with a tenacity that belies his 79 years he said, "It's the guy who has no hair and a crutch and who says 'I remember you when I was a kid,' that kills me."

Many moviegoers of the 1930s and 1940s identified with McHugh, probably because almost all red-blooded American boys, and the GIs they sometimes later became, had a friend with a nickname. And McHugh portrayed the good buddy with finesse.

It is also likely he was playing variations of himself.

"There is in his acting a very warm and methodical determination that is really a reflection of the man as he is in real life," says James Cagney in his 1974 autobiography, "Cagney by Cagney."

It is hard to tell if McHugh, a past master of the put-on, is having some fun at his listener's expense.

"Nobody ever called me 'John,'" he said. "It was almost always 'Bugs,' 'Spud' 'Droopy' or 'Crash.'

"Just once, why couldn't it have been 'Charlie?'"

He has lived modestly since 1950 in Cos Cob with his wife, the former Dorothy Spencer, of West Hartford. The couple has two children, Peter, a professor of sociology at York University in Toronto, and Susan, a photography specialist.

Except for his ascot, strangers would take McHugh for another of the town's more solid burghers. Once a week he takes the train to Manhattan for some socializing at the Player's Club.

The local library asked him recently to come and chat about "Midsummer Night's Dream," Shakespeare's comedy-fantasy in which McHugh played "Quince" to Cagney's "Bottom." The movie lost the Oscar for best picture to "Mutiny on the Bounty" in 1935.

"Midsummer Night's Dream. Was it really 40 years ago? My God!"

But he does not dote on the past. He talked of it only for the benefit of a listener. With almost total recall, he quoted from parts he played.

He was suddenly "McCue of the City News Bureau," a character in "The Front Page," the great 1928 stage play, later a movie classic, about the Chicago newspaper business in the roaring '20s.

McHugh was known for his ad libbing. Cagney recalls in his book a scene from "The Irish In Us" when McHugh returns home in tuxedo and white cap after a full dress affair:

"Pat O'Brien looks at him and says, 'You didn't wear that cap to the ball?' to which Frank improvised the great reply, 'Oh, I know, it should have been black?"

McHugh's mother and father were traveling actors from Homestead, Pa. With their five children, they made up a troupe.

When McHugh went to Hollywood, he was already a stage veteran like his friends Cagney, Tracy, O'Brien, and Edward G. Robinson, "a great character actor, a fine human being — and easy to put on.

"Eddie said to me one day, 'I saw you talking to Claude Raines,' and I picked it right up. 'Eddie,' I said, 'Claude Raines is the greatest character actor in the motion picture business.' He said, 'You really think so?' And I said, 'He may even be the greatest character actor in the world!'

"Well, that got Eddie. He was exasperated by then and he said, 'Jesus, Frankie, I wouldn't go THAT far!"

He may watch his old movies on television, but he doesn't enjoy them. His old friends are all there.

"There they are — exactly as if it were that very day — their voices, their mannerisms. There's Guy Kibbee, Walter Catlett, Hugh Herbert, Arthur Treacher, Joe E. Brown."

Holiday Gift Guide

Decorative delights brighten sights!

Stocking stuffers that go easy on the pocket

One of the things about Christmas that young children look forward to most is pinning up their Christmas stockings, and then finding them full of "goodies" on Christmas morning.

By the time parents get around to buying stocking stuffers, however, their Christmas budget—and ideas for gifts—may be exhausted.

To stay one step ahead of the last-minute shopping rush, here's a list of "stocking-size," affordable gift ideas for preschool boys and girls.

For less than $2.00, a Playmobil mini-pack gives a preschooler the start of what might well become a favorite play item. Available in sets of two Playmobil figures and several accessories each, the mini sets may be used alone, or extended for use with other toy systems a child already owns.

The new Medical mini set, for example—one of three new Playmobil series—features a doctor and a nurse figure, two Red Cross hats, a doctor's bag and walkie-talkie.

For the young "gourmet" in the house, Kusan's "Mini Kitchen Friends" appliances—stove, fridge and sink—feature smiling faces and contain cooking and washing accessories.

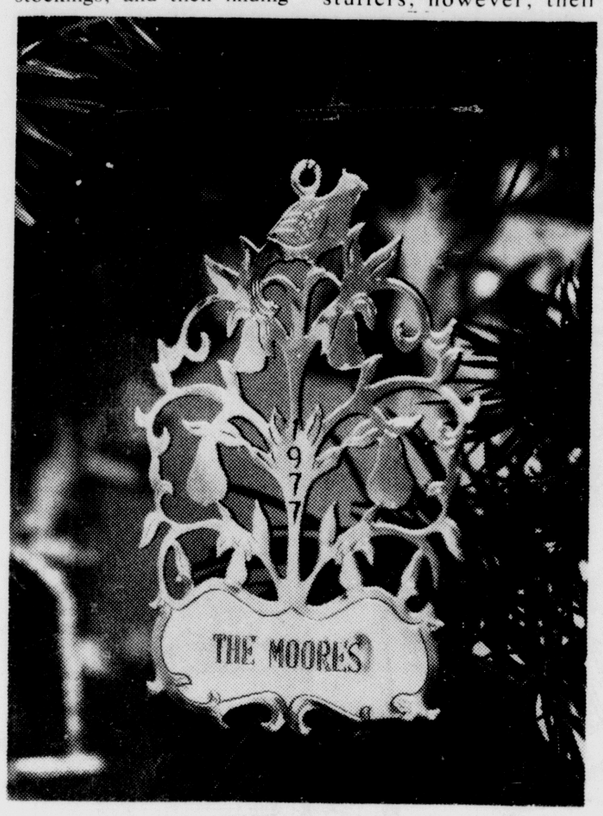

The "four and up" age group will get a big kick from "Super Prop" cars from Kusan which fit nicely in any stocking.

Built for use indoors and out, the "Flying Wedge" and "Sling Shot" models are propelled by heavy-duty elastic bands which hurl the race cars across the floor for fast, safe racing action.

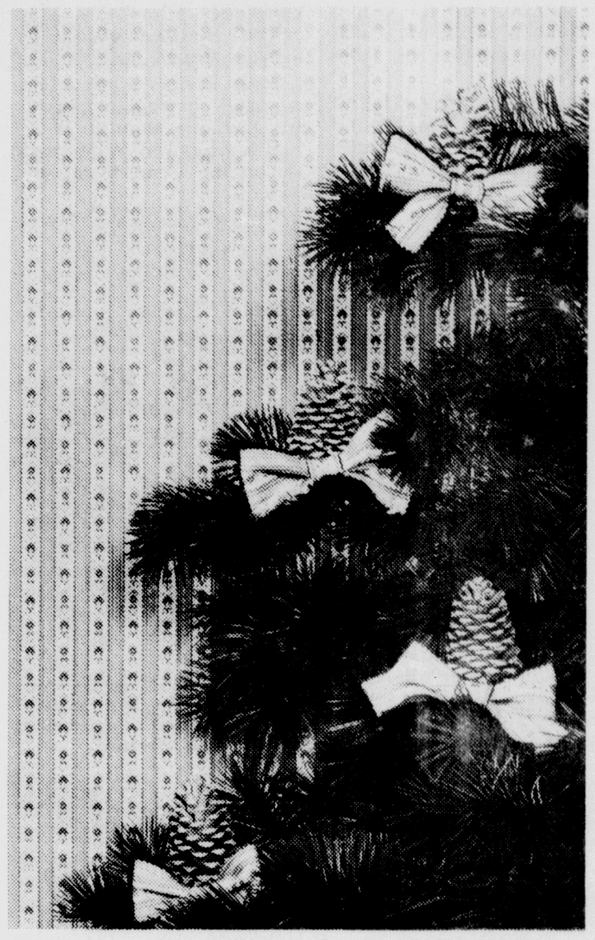

The "Cootie," a stocking stuffer which parents themselves may have received 30 years ago, continues to be a popular gift item. The colorful, plastic "Cootie" character snaps into shape, and is often a standard item in a child's toy chest.

A stocking stuffer gift which the whole family can enjoy, Lillikins twinkling tree ornaments from Lillian Vernon add that final, personal touch to the tree.

Other imaginative stocking stuffers for children may include a box of crayons, a yo-yo, Kazoo, jacks, playing cards, a jump rope or puppet.

AS A GIFT, in place of a greeting card, or as a little something extra in the Christmas stocking, Lillikins twinkling tree ornaments from Lillian Vernon are inexpensive yet elegant ornaments for the tree. Crafted from polished brass, Lillikins are available in dozens of holiday designs, and will twinkle brightly throughout the holiday season.

SPRUCE UP THE HOME AS WELL AS THE TREE this holiday season with wallcoverings and ornamental bows made from companion fabric. Shown here is a cheery pattern called "Concord Stripe," from the S-W Vinyls collection by Style Perfect®, available exclusively at more than 1,500 Sherwin-Williams Decorating Centers nationwide.

No tinsel here! Use pasta to decorate tree and table

Spaghetti, macaroni, rigatoni . . . they may not be standard Christmas fare, but a clever lady from upstate New York has found that they can be served up as pretty holiday decorations.

Designer Constance Spates uses assorted pastas to create decorations that range from fanciful tree ornaments to a pure and simple angel. She's even made a stylized tree to adorn a buffet table.

Beside the pasta, her basic ingredients are just cardboard, styrofoam shapes, and Elmer's Glue-All. Read her tips on how to make these holiday trimmings—then work your own variations.

Angel: Use a 12" styrofoam cone for the body, a 3" ball for the head. Cut off the tip of cone, and glue ball in place.

Cover body with thin spaghetti (don't worry that the 10" spaghetti is too short; the pretty collar and border, of pasta shells and bow ties, will cover the gaps.) Use ruffled pasta like "mafalda" for decorative center strip.

Hint: work in sections, applying Elmer's glue generously to cone as you go.

On ball, use light-colored fabric for face; smooth on and secure with straight pins. Glue on features cut from felt.

Glue on rice pasta for hair, and make halo from cardboard, covered with pasta bow-ties and with "rays" of spaghetti.

Tree: Cut four triangles of cardboard, and join along their long edges with strips of masking tape. Stand them up and fold so tape is inside (except for last edge, which will be joined outside.)

Cover with spaghetti, and decorate with pasta bow ties, shells and corkscrews. Glue on wooden balls for feet and, if desired, add matching pedestal made from a cardboard box. Spray-paint to match your table setting.

PASTA TOO PRETTY TO EAT: Delightful do-it-yourself holiday decorations can come from the kitchen shelf when you glue pasta to cardboard or styrofoam, or even string it up in garlands for the tree. You can give it a sparkling finish with Krylon spray paints, or leave it natural, like the charming angel.

HELLO, DOLLY: A new plaything causes delightful reactions that are worth saving in color snapshots. This dad has his Kodak Tele-Instamatic 708 camera handy for big, bright snapshots of all his dolls—on this day and every one thereafter—indoors with flash and outside.

A home deserves holiday spruce-up

Redecorate the home during the holiday season? Why not! You can make good use of "planned leftovers" for tree trimmings and gift wrappings.

Susan Barna, national decorating consultant for Sherwin-Williams, suggests doing the walls of the "tree room" in a wallcovering pattern from one of the company's Style Perfect® wallcovering books that offer companion fabrics. The fabric can be used for lasting decorating accessories such as throw pillows and table cloths.

Then use leftover fabric scraps to make bows for the Christmas tree, for a totally coordinated trimming treatment. Fabric "ornaments" are inexpensive, easy to make (the whole family can help), and safe. Fabric doesn't break or cut like glass and plastic, and there are no sharp edges to worry about.

Sherwin-Williams also suggests using leftover fabric and wallcovering to wrap packages that are sure to produce "oohs" and "aahs."

Finally, make scrubbable wallcoverings into place mats for the traditional turkey dinner. Afterwards, they can be wiped clean and saved for year-around use.

Style Perfect wallcoverings and companion fabrics are available at more than 1,500 Sherwin-Williams Decorating Centers nationwide.

MAKE ALL YOUR GIFTS in a food processor or make someone especially happy by giving a food processor. Food preparation takes a fraction of the time it formerly did. This multi-purpose appliance is a terrific gift for anyone who spends time in the kitchen.

THIS CHRISTMAS, THE NEW GENERATION OF VIDEO GAMES, like the RCA Studio II, will incorporate microprocessors, which considerably extend their versatility. RCA's unit, featuring five built-in games, can accommodate a variety of add-on cartridges that the company intends to continue to make available.

Picture your little angels in all their angelic glory!

You can dress a child in an angel outfit but you can't, necessarily, create an angel. When your camera is handy, you can capture the whole wonderful moment in pictures. As an added benefit, you can also keep them occupied before they go on stage.

Little wonder the holiday season is one of the most popular times for picture-taking, with all the special highlights worth remembering. The Christmas pageant, a party bubbling with gaiety, a tree twinkling with lights, wide-eyed children at their most appealing—all can be saved in snapshots when camera, film and flash are close by.

Convenient to carry, easy to use, a pocket-size Kodak Trimlite Instamatic 48 camera has an automatic shutter speed and lens opening for taking great pictures in rapid succession—indoors and outside. With a focus range of three feet to infinity, the camera allows you to select your distance with the help of a rangefinder.

To help you get the most out of your camera, whether you're taking pictures during holiday or other occasions throughout the year, Kodak photo experts offer the following tips:

• Compose each picture before you take it by checking the picture background for distractions that will draw attention away from the main subject. Shoot from a different angle to catch another view. Or move closer until the viewfinder framing marks enclose only what you want in the picture.

• Remember that the "fast" lens of the Kodak Trimlite 48 camera allows you to photograph from three to 30 feet from the camera when you're using a flipflash.

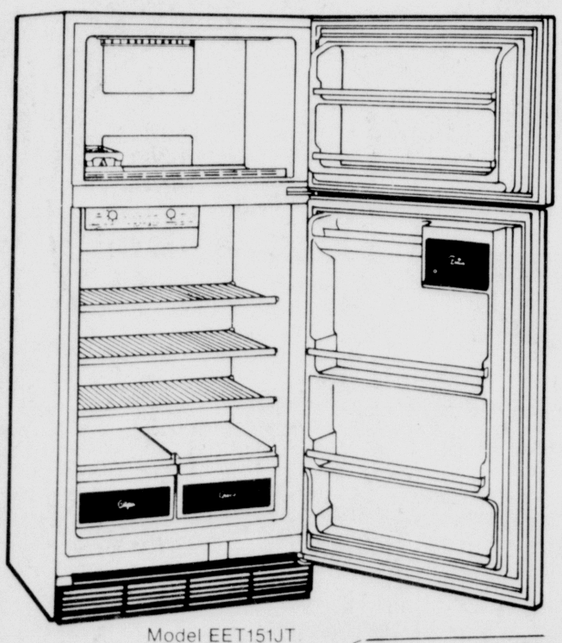

• Shoot from different angles to add variety and excitement to your snapshot collection.

Bathroom beauty at Christmastime

Bathrooms deserve as much attention as the rest of the house during the holiday season, especially with so many guests dropping in. Deck the mirror with holly and pine. Put a wreath on the inside of the door. Fill up pretty baskets with red and green guest soaps and invest in some perky holiday towels. For an extra rich touch, add lovely red and green candles (pine and bayberry are good holiday scents), then light them when the guests arrive! (Just make sure they're safely secured in sturdy candle holders.) A candlelit bath is really a beautiful experience!

No frost, low cost.

Christmas is a time for sharing, caring

Christmas joy shines in us all

The spirit of Christmas—it means many things to many different people, yet it is alive and real in spite of attempts to disclaim it, bringing to people all over the world a time of joy, a feeling of brotherhood and a sense of renewal—of friendships, love and hope.

Christmas for some is a deeply religious experience. For others, Christians and non-Christians alike, it is a joyous time to gather with family and friends, to send cards and letters to all those we may have neglected in the past year, and to shop for all the lovely presents that will sit temptingly under the tree until Christmas Day.

Most special list you can make

Indeed, the Christmas gift list is a very special part of the loving Christmas spirit—it's something different from any other list of names in the world. It may be large or small, filled in with everything from the practical to the extraordinary, but every list of Christmas plans is a very personal expression of friendship and love.

No mere shopping guide, the Christmas gift list is an important extension of the joyous spirit of Christmas itself—a time for caring, sharing, a time to stop and reflect on a year's worth of memories and those who made them special.

As we write down the names of the friends and relatives we wish to present with our holiday packages, we recall all of the qualities of each person listed. Christmas is the time when every present must be special, every package filled with delight.

To find such gifts involves more than a casual thought. In a sense, the Christmas shopper places himself ahead to Christmas Day, to the moment when the wrappings are undone and the ribbons scattered, in hopes of finding just the right item to light up a face and widen a smile.

The answers may come to us as we drive to work, while cleaning the attic or reading the Sunday paper. Suddenly we remember the look on mother's face the day she spotted that special blue dress . . . or the little hints that dad's been dropping all along for a new rod and tackle . . . or the extra attention the young tomboy-turned-teenager has been paying to her wardrobe and the way junior's been spotted practicing with a tie in front of the mirror.

We remember a friend's favorite color, or fragrance, or how much she admired a certain style. We even intercept Santa's letters on their way to the North Pole in the hopes of keeping up with St. Nick in spreading Christmas joy to the children!

A list this personal, this loving and thoughtful, requires a great deal of planning, needless to say.

Plan early for your Christmas gift buying, so that you can be certain the presents you select will carry with them that special message of thoughtfulness and love. Even the best plans can use some help.

This year's offerings for Christmas are better than ever, combining the best of rich, nostalgic, romantic items with an array of modern wizardry to set the head spinning!

It's the perfect year for all the special women in your life—mothers, wives, and sweethearts will all appreciate the beautiful return of romance as seen in the latest fashions and accessories. Ruffles, lace, silks and satin are all making fashion headlines, and what prettier way is there to show her how pretty you think she is!

Golden tree castles

ELEGANT, AIRY AND INTRICATELY FILIGREED describe Reed & Barton's sparkling new Tree Castles in 20kt. gold electroplate. Each exquisite Tree Castle bears a different see-through design. From $9 to $12.50 at fine jewelry stores.

phone, or imagine gifting a young man his first electric shaver!

Teenagers also have definite tastes in music, and while you may not know the difference between Rod Stewart and Jimmy Stewart, a look through their current record collection and a chat with the salespeople at your local record store should give you a fairly good idea of what's popular and pleasing on the teen scene.

Babes in Toyland

Children are always a delight to shop for at Christmas, and this year there are more wonderful selections than ever before to choose from. There are dolls of every kind for boys and girls alike—dolls to cuddle and love, dolls to play grown-up with, dolls to lead them through all of their wonderful fancies and fantasies.

There are games for future athletes and budding Einsteins, and toys that talk, walk, fly, dive, laugh, cry, teach, tickle and love.

As always, if you should have any doubts as to what would be most appreciated, just listen in when they crawl up on Santa's knee.

But whether you're shopping for youngsters or grandparents, newlyweds or singles, students or career builders, relatives, friends, or the gang at the office, remember that the most important part of any Christmas gift is the time and thought put into it by you, the giver, and the joy you'll receive when they open the packages to say . . . "Merry Christmas, and thanks so much!"

Give the kind of gift that keeps on giving!

Christmas, 'tis the season for mistletoe and gift giving. Homemade gifts are appreciated because they express the true spirit of giving. Cookies, a traditional fruitcake or a festive sweetbread are gifts to be enjoyed by all.

Homemade gifts are a treat but why not make a gift of the appliance used to prepare all these baked goods? The Farberware Food Processor saves time and energy; it is welcomed in the kitchens of both experienced and novice cooks.

Complete with three stainless steel blades and a plastic mixing blade the food processor performs such tasks as chopping meat, making yeast doughs, slicing and shredding fruits and vegetables and even making fresh fruit sherbet.

Add to the spirit of the yule season by trying Choco-Doodles shown in the cookie jar. For additional recipes write to Farberware, PIC, 1500 Bassett Avenue, Bronx, NY 10461.

CHOCO-DOODLES

- 2¼ cups all purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup butter or margarine, cut into 1-inch pieces
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 package (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
- ¼ teaspoon peppermint extract
- Sugar

Preheat oven to 350°F. Mix flour, baking soda and salt. In bowl of food processor place chopping blade. Add butter and ½ cup sugar. Cover; process until well mixed. Remove cover and add egg, semi-sweet chocolate pieces, peppermint extract and flour mixture. Cover and process until mixed. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls into sugar; roll. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

THE HOLIDAYS ARE A FESTIVE TIME, and with all the social events of the holiday season, a woman wants to look her best from head to toe. A flower in her hair can highlight a woman's crowning glory. Another area where a woman can put her best foot forward is her legs. Good grooming includes a clean shaven leg. Until now an electric shaver powerful enough to shave her legs was too harsh for delicate underarms, and a shaver gentle enough for underarms was not close enough for legs. Now Remington has introduced the revolutionary Smooth & Silky™ electric razor designed exclusively for a woman's personal shaving need. It shaves as well as a blade, and to prove it, Remington is enclosing a blade razor with each Smooth & Silky and is asking the consumer to use both. If the Smooth & Silky doesn't shave as well as a blade, just return it to Remington along with your sales slip within 30 days of purchase for a refund of the full purchase price.

Your own portrait photo makes most personal gift

You don't have to be handy with a spindle, spoon or spade to give a unique gift this holiday season. Just call on a professional who will work with you in creating the most personal gift you can give to loved ones—a portrait photo of you alone or with your family.

Today, most studio photographers offer a pre-sitting conference where you can plan with the professional the style and colors of clothing, the setting, and the mood for the portrait that best captures your personality and interests.

For the outdoor activist, this may mean casual attire for a portrait "sitting" that actually takes place outdoors. Photographers have been known to set up their cameras on ski slopes, at tennis courts, in open fields, alongside streams, or in backyards—all in the interest of portraying their subject in a natural, typical environment.

On the other hand, you may prefer the controlled setting of a portrait studio where the photographer can use lighting, posing, backdrops and props to create a variety of photographic moods and styles.

Whichever you choose, now is the time to make arrangements for a portrait photo Christmas gift. Since this is the photographer's busiest season, you should allow six to eight weeks from the time of the sitting before the finished portrait will be ready to wrap.

There are bound to be several people on your holiday gift list who will treasure a new portrait of you or your family. And, if it's made on Kodak paper, clearly marked in the back of each print, you can be sure the quality will be good

From one portrait sitting, you can order large framed photographs for your own home, for parents and grandparents. Smaller prints are ideal for offices and dormitory rooms. You might enclose small prints with Christmas cards. Or ask your photographer about the contemporary-styled greeting cards in his Collection.

They'll love a gift that ticks and tocks

'Tis the season to be jolly! Why not practical, too; when thinking of gifts, think of items that will be useful the year around. Gifts for the home, for example.

An excellent gift for the home is a clock, for a number of reasons. It combines fashion with function. It has a personality, a face and a voice; it literally "talks" to you with its ticking. It is also a constant reminder of the giver, for it is in use every day.

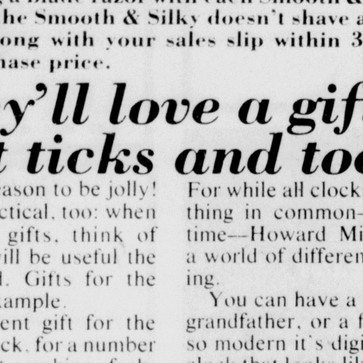

In choosing a clock as a gift, you've great latitude. For while all clocks have one thing in common—they tell time—Howard Miller offers a world of difference in styling.

You can have a traditional grandfather, or a floor clock so modern it's digital; a wall clock that looks like an overgrown pocket watch, or one that resembles a regulator from an old railroad station; a clock handsomely cased in cherry or oak, or one framed in natural cork or rattan.

A gift of time? It's a good one to give, because it's useful and it's good-looking!

Gifts of time and talent revive true Yule spirits

The high cost of Christmas giving may be hard on generous grown-ups, but it's even tougher on pint-sized shoppers.

Young gift givers with only a few dollars to spend won't have much to choose from at yuletide counters this year.

Does that mean there won't be many parent-pleasing packages under the Christmas tree? Not necessarily.

Resourceful families have come up with a new idea to help cut the high cost of gift giving this Christmas. They suggest supplementing material presents with gifts of time and talent, reports the Bissell Consumer Service Institute.

In one household, each child was encouraged to dream up a helpful service he or she could offer the entire family. Packages would then be placed under the tree containing coupons redeemable for tasks such as cleaning the garage, baking a year's worth of birthday cakes, or planting the spring garden.

In another home, dad and the kids are pooling their savings and buying mom a Bissell Sweep Master Dual Powered Lite-Vac, an easy-to-use, lightweight vacuum with plenty of power for major clean-up jobs.

Attached to the box will be a New Year's calendar filled with vacuuming commitments.

This unique Christmas idea of giving time and talent along with traditional gifts is an excellent way to help those young shoppers who can't afford many elaborate gifts.

Families adopting this creative method of gift-giving find it has many benefits. Aside from the economic advantages, it involves children in the true spirit of giving and keeps the meaning of Christmas alive the whole year through.

GIFTS OF TIME AND TALENT will supplement Christmas packages in many homes this year, according to the Bissell Consumer Service Institute. One family is presenting mom with a Bissell Sweep Master Dual Powered Lite-Vac and attaching a calendar filled with vacuuming commitments. The Dual Powered Lite-Vac, which combines cleaning power with easy portability, retails for approximately $79.95.

Brighten your holiday home with the soft glow of candles

With the holiday season approaching, it's time to focus attention on ways to enhance and enliven your decor.

Traditionally, candlelight has been a gracious feature in holiday decorating. Whether the candles were on a mantelpiece or used as a table centerpiece, they added to the mood of the occasion.

Candles are not new in decorating. But there's something new in generating candlelight. It's the Un-Candle floating candle concept. Corning utilizes glass cylinders with candle wicks floating in oil.

The candleholder is made of clear glass into which the home decorator puts colored water, colored stones, seashells, a Christmas trimming, flowers or anything that is appropriate. Water is added with a little cooking oil and a 12-hour floating wick. Light, and you have candlelight.

With traditional candlelight in a new and exciting fashion mode, opportunities for decorating ideas are almost limitless.

For no matter what your tastes are in furnishings, there's always room for the proper kind of candlelight. And using it wisely is one of the least expensive and most rewarding ways to bring special interest to your decor.

The Un-Candle collection includes a variety of shapes and sizes that can be mixed and matched. Each Un-Candle comes with 50 floating wicks, and this saves the expense of 50 candles, Corning says.

Who is that gift really for? Give presents personal touch

"This year, I'm going to do it right; plan a budget, make a list and shop ahead of time." Sound familiar? Yet suddenly, it's two days before Christmas, and the frantic rush to buy gifts has just begun.

A little planning can go a long way, and help stretch any Christmas budget. Here are some gift ideas for mom, dad, the kids and even for grandma and grandpa to help make this year's Christmas shopping easier.

For mom

One of the best parts of opening the Christmas gifts is displaying them under the tree. To help set off the gifts in tasteful, traditional style, the Christmas Tree Skirt from the Lillian Vernon gift catalog of over 1000 unique items features charming Christmas figures hand-screened onto bleached jute with a real homespun look. With a slit up the back, the skirt is placed around the tree trunk, and is handwashable in warm water. Based in Mt. Vernon, N.Y., Lillian Vernon is a leading U.S. gift catalog marketer.

If mom likes to sew, a thimble is essential to her work. Why not replace her ordinary, metal thimbles with those from Lillian Vernon's international collector's set. Crafted from porcelain, silver-plated brass and gold-plated metal, the thimbles are available in striking designs from five European countries.

Next to salt and pepper, what one ingredient complements more dishes than any other? Ask mom, and she's likely to say Liquore Galliano, the popular Italian liqueur. A 23-oz. size of this legendary liqueur makes a versatile Christmas gift for mom, ideal for Harvey Wallbanger Cakes, Chicken Cordon Gold, or in the glaze for the holiday ham.

For dad

If the sport of fishing is more to dad's liking, the "Fishing Machine" from St. Croix provides challenging angling action in a full-sized fiber glass rod which collapses into the rod and assembly for fishing at a moment's notice.

Complete with a patented "Range Finder-Depth Finder," the Fishing Machine collapses for easy storage in car, boat or briefcase.

With next year's baseball season still four months away, the wait may be just too much for a sports-loving dad. To keep him occupied in the meantime, "Super Jock" Baseball from Schaper will let dad recreate fast baseball action right on the living room floor.

Based on the same exciting game principle as the original four "Super Jock" sports action games, a firm knock on the baseball athlete's head sends the baseball flying, and makes point-scoring more difficult than it looks!

If dad is a scotch whisky lover, he'll love a gift of Ballantine's Scotch in the handsome decorator decanter. For the second year in a row, the stylish decanter is being offered in limited quantities, and at no extra charge. And when the top quality scotch is gone, the decanter remains as a striking addition to any home bar.

If dad has to go to his local pub or bar to enjoy a glass of imported beer, then give him a real treat with a case of imported beer under the Christmas tree.

An excellent choice is St. Pauli Girl beer from Germany, one of the top five U.S. imported beers. Light, clean-tasting, and with virtually no aftertaste, St. Pauli Girl beer will surprise dad's demanding taste because it's properly aged and brewed with absolutely no chemicals or preservatives.

For the kids

To help children create entire environments of lifelike play situations, the three newest Playmobil Toy System series—Medical, Fire Fighters and Cavalry—may be used alone, or added on to sets a child may already own.

Playmobil people are colorful, miniature figures with movable arms and legs and a variety of accessories, available in base, starter, deluxe and super deluxe sets.

With all the excitement the Christmas season brings, smart parents will give their youngsters toys and games which keep them out from underfoot and engrossed in constructive play.

For preschoolers ages two through seven, the Beaver Work Bench from Kusan has a variety of safe, soft plastic tools which allow "busy beavers" to improve physical dexterity as they play at "building" or "making" just about anything a young imagination can conjure up.

Designed for children—and their parents—"Finders Keepers" is a suspenseful, two-in-one family game.

The fun-filled time puzzle is a three dimensional board that uses a marble, playing cards and corresponding geometric shapes in a race against time. With two playing boards; one for youngsters, one for older folks, "Finders Keepers" will keep players at the edge of their seats.

For preschoolers who still have a few years to go before they can build skyscrapers or roads, the "Scoop Loader," the newest Chunky Truck pull toy from Kusan, will let them have fun pretending in the meantime.

Like its four predecessors, the Scoop Loader is made of durable, colorful plastic, and has a removable "Chunky" driver who steers from atop the truck. By manually tilting the scoop up and down, kids can safely lift imaginary—or real—loads of dirt, sand, gravel or small objects.

For grandparents

With so many gift ideas for mom, dad and the kids, there's yet another family member to be considered—a grandmother or grandfather. Ideal for use on the patio, porch, or even indoors, Cosom's Home Shuffleboard is a Christmas gift with year-round appeal.

Complete with a 15-foot long "memory" plastic court, four cues, eight discs and playing rules, Home Shuffleboard also has an optional, all-weather scoreboard for accurate scorekeeping.

For the whole family

Because the family Christmas tree is just that—a family tree—there's something uniquely personal about its appearance. And what better way to enhance that personal look than with elegant ornaments which reflect a family's taste?

Crafted from solid polished brass, Lillikins "twinkles" from the Lillian Vernon Gift catalog are personally-engraved, twinkling tree ornaments which make ideal gifts for the entire family.

Available in more than a dozen nostalgic Christmas scenes—snowmen, angels, bells, cherubic children and Santa figures—Lillikins hang gracefully from the tree, mantelpiece, above a door or window, or anywhere as conversation pieces.

In no time, Lillikins will become cherished family heirloom ornaments.

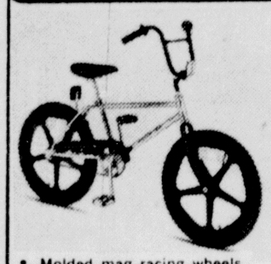

One gift for the whole family is a new door security device that will help everyone sleep a lot easier. A new, hard-rubber wedge that installs on the floor offers more protection than chain locks.

St. Croix's patented "Stoplock" provides deadbolt strength against forced entry and cannot be cut, sawed or forced. It's available in chain, security and hardware stores for a suggested retail price of $9.95.

PRESCHOOLERS ARE SENDING MESSAGES, loud and clear, on the "Lil' Buddy" talking CB radio from Kusan. Complete with four "channels," a talking mechanism, simulated on-off switch and squelch control, the popular toy radio will appear under many Christmas trees this holiday.

Putting their ears on . . .

Give kids message of big Yule 10-4!

There's a new CB on the market that promises perfect reception every time. It's the reception parents everywhere are getting when they surprise their kids with the "Lil' Buddy," a talking, play CB radio from Kusan.

The ingenious, colorful toy uses a sound box and pull-ring activator to "talk" to pre-school CB fans. By listening to one of six messages recorded in CB lingo, the child locates one of four different characters, or "good buddies," featured on the radio.

He then pulls the cord in the "microphone," plugs the mike into the corresponding channel, and watches as one of the four characters—trucker, fire chief, policeman or nurse—pops up in front of a simulated city street scene.

To begin "modulating," the youngster lifts the CB lid and extends the antenna. For added realism, a make-believe power switch and squelch knob are built into the unit.

By listening to the recorded messages, the "Lil' Buddy" permits children to practice simple word associations while imitating the adult world of citizen's band communications at the same time. The combination of twist, pull and press levers provides animation and heightens the pre-schooler's interest as well.

Shop Carefully For Kids Toys

Toys have been called the tools of a child's development: they affect the way children develop their minds and muscles and find out who they are and what they can do about it. So, selecting toys can be an important job for concerned parents.

How does one shop wisely for toys? Here are some suggestions:

• Know and understand your children's abilities, attention spans, and interests. Talk with them to find out what they really are interested in and what they really want.

• Buy a toy that involves children, and gives them something to do. A new toy this year that is fun—and provides exercise, too—is Stretch Monster. This 13" half-man, half-creature with green scaly skin and devil-like eyes, can be pulled or put in funny positions; he always returns to his original shape.

• Children will play with and benefit from toys only if they are fun. Don't be overzealous about buying so-called "educational" toys--they may only be boring.

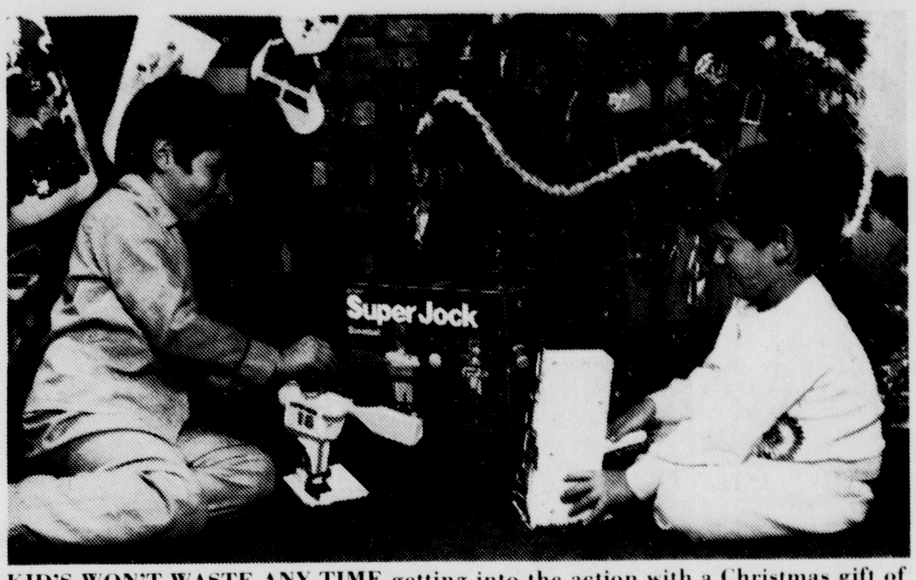

The new Golden Bookmobile, for instance, is a wise purchase because it can inspire kids to get the reading habit early. This is a sturdy, kid-powered, skoot-around little truck that features a fold-down door, and a storage compartment for 30 Golden Books or other playthings.

Included are 10 bookmark "passengers" and a Little Golden Book to start the preschooler's library.

• Buy toys that help prepare children for later adult roles. Baby Heartbeat is a new doll, for example, that teaches children about health and caring for others. Children can listen to the real-sounding "heartbeat" of this newborn doll with a special "stethoscope," or take her temperature with a safe "thermometer."

• Always consider the manufacturer's recommended age groups printed on packaging, but don't forget that each child is unique.

And one final word of advice: shop early. If you shop at the last minute, quite often the really wanted toys, such as the Six Million Dollar Man; Jaime Sommers, the Bionic Woman; and the new Oscar Goldman action figures, may be gone. Then, no matter how well you planned your purchases, you will have to settle for another toy.

KID'S WON'T WASTE ANY TIME getting into the action with a Christmas gift of "Super Jock" baseball, the fifth and newest sports/action game from Schaper. A firm rap on the durable baseball athlete's head sends the soft baseballs flying for fast, hard-to-score points.

Indoor baseball season begins on December 25th!

For some, adults in particular, the World Series tolls the end of yet another baseball season. But as snowflakes appear, and winds swirl, diehard young lovers of the nation's number one sport often still find themselves wanting to play baseball.

The second season—the holiday season—can also be the indoor baseball season. And toy manufacturers are now getting into the "swing" of indoor baseball.

Introduced just a few months ago, a two-player game called "Super Jock" baseball involves precision timing and player coordination. The newest of five "Super Jock" sports action games, the baseball game, "Super Slam," operates on the same exciting principle as its four counterparts, and will keep youngsters busily engaged in challenging play right through the winter months.

All "Super Jock" sports games come complete with everything needed to play, including decals, scorepad, and field markers. Colorful and long-lasting, they stand up well to repeated whacks on the head.

Score points with gift of floor hockey that keeps kids scoring all year 'round!

Thousands of school children in over 45 states, plus Canada and Europe, play floor hockey, a sport that looks like hockey, feels like hockey, and has similar rules. Yet it's a lot safer because it doesn't need ice or heavy protective padding.

Floor hockey equipment is an ideal Christmas gift because children can use it indoors right away for fun and valuable exercise during the winter months.

A floor hockey set is one gift children won't have to wait until nice weather to use. It can be played in an empty garage, patio, or basement recreation room. Plastic, lightweight sticks and pucks provide safe, durable play without damage to furniture or walls.

Cosom, leading manufacturer of floor hockey equipment since the sport began in 1962, has a number of floor hockey sets including the most popular, an indoor-outdoor set which has everything two players need for lots of hockey action.

The set includes a goal, net, two sticks and a bright orange puck. It sells for $18 in finer sporting goods and chain stores everywhere.

Use Xmas Checklist For Cheery Season

Christmas is a time for good cheer, not chaos! Yet the unprepared may find that the holiday season has crept up on them, leaving them to frantically address cards, rummage through the basement for decorations, and garble excuses as they sneak out to buy food and drink for their unexpected guests!

Here's a handy holiday checklist to help you avoid such last-minute problems:

FOR THE TREE:

☐ Look over ornaments. If any are broken, replace them early before selections narrow.
☐ Have supply of ornament hangers to replace those left on last year's tree.
☐ Check lights and cords.
☐ Buy extra bulbs.
☐ Look over tree cloth to be sure it is clean and has no holes.
☐ Find tree stand and clean it up.

FOR GIFTING:

☐ Make your list early and do a little at a time.
☐ Get wrapping paper, ribbons, cards.
☐ Wrap as you buy gifts.

'Tis the season to be decorative!

'TIS THE SEASON to uncork your most memorable occasions while creating an unique Christmas decoration. Champagne corks, saved from those special moments, and placed artistically on a pine bough result in a decorative conversation piece for Christmas and year round.

A Champagne cork tree has many fond memories

A sentimental champagne lover, New York interior decorator Mona Bower, has found a way to keep memories alive while creating an attractive Christmas decoration.

Following an old custom in France, where champagne is made, Ms. Bower saves champagne corks and hangs the mushroom shaped closures on a branch. The result is a tasteful conversation piece that is constantly on view.

For her year 'round Christmas tree, Ms. Bower found an interesting branch from a pine tree, left the pine cones intact, and "planted" it in a wooden bucket containing a mixture of sand, stones and pebbles.

She then placed the decorations—champagne corks saved from special occasions, supplemented by small Christmas baubles—at irregular intervals, wherever they seemed pleasing to the eye.

The champagne corks hang from their original wire muzzles, twisted in the shape of hooks. Or fine nylon thread can be used. Each cork could also be labeled with the names of people with whom you shared the champagne, and the occasion when it was popped.

A purist, Ms. Bower insists on using only corks of champagne bottles she personally drank from. So her tree keeps growing with each season's new harvest of champagne corks.

Try homemade Christmas this year -for fun!

Whatever happened to homemade spice cookies and tree decorations, handcrafted toys and bees wax candles? If you're longing for the good old days when grandmother did everything herself instead of buying Christmas in a store, here are some ideas to bring back those holiday memories without a lot of work.

Spray on holiday cheer

Aerosol sprays are an ideal helpmate in creating exciting holiday decorations. Now you can do in a twinkling what it took days for grandmother to do by hand.

Decide on a total holiday color scheme. Whether you choose gold and silver, red and white or some other combination, you'll achieve a richer effect if you concentrate on just two colors. Then select the products to help you create an unforgettable Yuletide setting.

Tree Trimmings—Dramatize your Christmas tree with garlands of cranberries alternated with fluffy popped corn. Highlight the crisp red and white motif with tiny bows of velvet or satin.

To bring the winter wonderland indoors, spray tree boughs with aerosol "snow" and scent the room with aerosol pine spray. For a safe holiday season, keep a fire extinguisher within easy reach of the tree.

Tree trimmings make an ideal family project. Take colored construction paper and cut out angels, reindeer, candy canes or chains of paper dolls. Spray them lightly with aerosol glue and sprinkle with glitter. Tie them to the tree with color-coordinated yarn and see how good they look!

Use uncooked pasta in the shape of wagon wheels to make a garland. Spray paint the pieces before stringing them together and weaving them around the tree.

For effective and safe use of aerosols, be sure to read and follow the directions and cautions on the label.

Festive Foods—The cookie-cutter crowd will enjoy making gingerbread Santas and stars while you bake spice cookies and fruitcake muffins. For an irresistible treat, make brownies and garnish them with spray whipped cream and a cherry.

Wreaths and Windows—Wreaths—of evergreen, pine cones or plastic fruit—can be glamorized with silver or gold aerosol paints. For a highlight, add sprigs of holly or Christmas balls.

You can bring Old World charm into your home by making stained glass windows. Buy sheets of colored plastic at an art store. Then cut them into geometric shapes to depict a scene or random design. Spray your window with adhesive, and press the plastic pieces on the glass until they stick. Leave a little space between the segments for strips of black masking tape to simulate the leaded look.

Spray aerosol "snow" on corners of window panes, and the interior of your home will look cozier than ever.

Holiday Wrappings—A little creativity can elevate your Christmas gift-wrapping to an art. To personalize gifts—and Christmas stockings—cut out stars, snowmen and St. Nicks, or make block letters of felt or patterned fabrics. Then glue them on packages or stockings. Buttons, ribbons or other trimmings from your sewing box can add luster to your artistry.

There are lots more project you can dream up. All it takes is love, imagination and holiday spirit!

Things to remember

New Year's is the traditional day for resolutions, but Christmas should be the day for "remembers."

Remember—the good times you've had and be thankful for them.

Remember—your family loves you; return that love.

Remember—your pet depends on you for his food, his lodging, his health; give him a good life.

Remember—your friends; it is your responsibility to keep them as friends.

Remember—people in hospitals need you more now; pay a brief visit with a cheery smile.

Remember—nursing home patients love to see a friendly face; drop in for a chat.

Remember—the people who are working on Christmas Day to make your life happier; a pleasant smile and a friendly voice will make them happy.

Remember—the true meaning of Christmas: Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Man.
